EXPERIENCE

Gary's early career in Education Queensland and TAFE established his life-long commitment to helping educators and educational leaders achieve their potential. This is based on a belief that educators play a profoundly important role in society.

He has supported the development of thousands of leaders, managers and professionals in education and across a diverse range of private, public and not-for-profit organisations. Gary has also worked as a consultant with some of Australia's top consulting firms including Ernst and Young, Chandler Macleod and the Australian Institute of Management.

In the Departments of Education Queensland and Northern Territory Gary has provided executive coaching and career development for leaders at all levels within central and regional offices and schools. His clients include Director Generals, Deputy Director Generals, Regional Directors, Assistant Regional Directors, Principals, DPs, HODs and teachers.

In every case, he works in a partnership with his clients and with an approach tailored for the individual. Gary believes that his clients create their own career and professional journey along with solutions to their challenges along the way.
